What's TOP about Keele?	Comments
KLE powerpoints instead of printing
Green modules	We have shared the Module Case Studies document with the Sustainability Voice Reps. In terms of the number of modules that exist already relating to sustainability, we're in a great place and students have recognised this. But we want to do more! One of the key things we will be working with the SVRs on is increasing awareness of modules that relate to Sustainability. We have also begun conversations with the academic and administrative staff in the Schools to get this point on the agenda so Lecturers can begin thinking how they can either offer modules or embed aspects of SDGs into their teaching.
Keele has a lot of countryside	As part of the Green Mindfulness campaign we have launched and alongside our Active Lifestyles Officer, we are going to be running Wellbeing Walks. In addition, within the Student Union, members of staff are encouraged to partake in 'Walking meetings' around campus.
Amazing cherry blossoms during spring
What can be improved?	Action Plan
Recycling in squirrel	As this venue is used as a night venue we wanted to establish a long term recycling option which would not need to be removed on nights out. Sam Gibbons has worked with the Facilities team on this and will be implementing this as soon as possible.
Prospective students booklets- could be on recyclable paper	Sam Gibbons is going to raise this in the next Sustainability Steering Group he attends with staff at the University to find out if this is already in place or if it is possible.
Cutting trees down for development	Unfortunately, some trees are removed for development purposes, however, established trees are always considered significantly before any removal takes place. There is also a tree replacement policy that the University is still standing by, we as an SU will liaise with Estates to ensure this is adhered by.
Sort rubbish collection in halls	Sam Gibbons is looking into this.
More recycle bins- especially in the library!	We are currently working with the Environment Manager about this, also to be considered in other buildings across campus included Chancellors and other academic buildings.
Incentives and rewards for recycling.	As part of Halls Life scheme, Halls who have the best recycling practice receive Halls points. The accommodation with the most Halls Life Points gets a free formal evening event at Keele Hall. If you'd like any more information about this, please contact Halls Life.
